Good morning,

We hope that February has been a good month for you! At UGE we have been very busy achieving many solar project milestones and are pleased to announce a number of updates across our markets.

- 505 Carroll, the first community solar project developed in New York City, has achieved commercial operation. The 106 kW system will produce 127,000 kWh per year, offsetting the CO2 equivalent of driving 220,000 miles. The system reinforces UGE as a market leader in an area expected to grow exponentially in the coming years.
- In Maryland, UGE guided its client to commercial operation for two ground mount solar projects totaling 4.6MW. By providing engineering and project management expertise, we helped the project owner reach this milestone within a tight 2018 timeline.
- In Canada, UGE reached substantial completion on the next five sites in the Peterborough portfolio during the first two months of this year. The portfolio, totaling 9MW across 15 sites, is expected to be fully operational later this spring.

- In the Philippines, we reached final completion on a 500 kW system for Robin Toys, a premium manufacturer of toys in the Philippines. The system offsets over 650,000 kWh of electricity, reducing Robin Toys' operating expenses through a cheaper rate of electricity.

- In addition, for its Canadian-based client, UGE has completed more than 30 construction packages for schools and hospitals in Nigeria, helping bring clean, affordable energy to a region with otherwise intermittent and expensive energy.

We look forward to providing further updates with the growing momentum of solar in our key markets and worldwide. As always, please reach out any time with any questions.

Kind Regards,
Nick
